EAGLES NEST UPDATE

Finally, some good news. The planning commission gave their approval on our Eagles Nest project wednesday afternoon. They did impose some additional restrictions, the most troublesome probably being that the airfield can only be used by property owners. This means we cannot invite guests to fly in for a visit. Their concern, of course, is that we might create too much traffic. Personally I think this infringes on our rights, but I guess we have to take what we can get.

The successful outcome of this vote was largely due to Don Shoemaker's intensive lobbying of the commissioners, making sure they were educated about flying regulations and the difference between airports and airfields. It was obvious during the discussions before the vote wednesday that he had done a great job. They didn't have it all right, but it was close enough.

The next step is the hearing before the County Commissioners, probably in about 4 to 5 weeks.

EAA AVIATION EXPLORERS POST #569

On April 10th Post #569 held a car wash for their first fund raiser. Matt Gangler reported that it was a success with $561 raised.

Their meetings during the last month included a tour of NW Airline and a speaker who was a corporate pilot speaking on business aircraft.

NOTE FROM HARLO

I received a letter from Harlo McKinty with his membership dues. He is in Placerville, CA at the moment and commented:

"General Aviation is alive & well at a small airpark/airport about 2 miles from here...Cameron Park. It looks good to see the ramp full of "little airplanes". This is a suburb of Sacramento, and the airport is 5 min. off of a freeway."

He should be back in our area this Summer.

March 16, 1993.

Fellow-EAA members -

Kenny + I would like to thank you for the beautiful basket of flowers you sent him while he was in the hospital. They made a welcome bright spot in his room. Thanks too for the individual notes written at the EAA meeting!

He is home and gradually gaining an appetite and strength.
